Michel Lambert

Novelist and short story writer born in the Congo in 1947. He won the prix Rossel in 1988 for 'Une vie d'oiseau'. He is also the founder of the prix Renaissance short story prize and an organiser of writing workshops.

An expert short story writer, Michel Lambert places his characters and his narratives in an everyday life that could be ours. By adhering to the minutiae of existence, he manages to give a universal dimension to an oeuvre that is in turn melancholic, farcical and comical, but fuelled by a sensitivity that reveals a true tenderness for the human beings that we are.
